

PHASE 1: Compliance Concerns

18 Aug — 31 Oct 2025

On 18 August 2025 I moved to a team with limited overlap with my Team Leader, so guidance during calls was often sought through group chats or other supervisors.

The cases above highlight different Ofcom regulatory concerns that arose while handling customer issues.

These examples appear in my disclosure dossier; additional cases and detailed analysis are provided there. The evidence consists primarily of contemporaneous Microsoft Teams screenshots.

PHASE 2: Grievance and Interim Arrangements

1 Nov — 19 Dec 2025

Following the initial contact with HR, the concerns were formally raised through the company grievance process. The timeline above shows key grievance-handling emails and events.

During each response gap, I sent additional emails, either where events affecting working arrangements required clarification, or as follow-up messages seeking a response during prolonged silence.

Topic categories used in the response-gap analysis

Documents	Investigation	Pay	Working arrangements
Requests for documents such as the employee handbook, policies, or other relevant materials.	Requests relating to investigation of the concerns raised, including potential Ofcom regulatory breaches.	Requests regarding shortfall of pay or clarification of how pay would be handled during the grievance period.	Requests for instruction on how to carry out duties during the grievance process, including reporting lines and safe working arrangements.

PHASE 3: Operational Silence

20 Dec 2025 — 19 Mar 2026
